PREFACE.

THE Editor in compiling the following Sheets of Muſic, has endeavoured to make a collection that will be uſeful and pleaſing.—Singing is not only a requiſite part of divine worſhip, but it is of great uſe to refine and ſoften the paſſions, and mould our thoughts into a ſacred devotion, and to beget harmony and uniformity of ſentiment in our Holy Religion.—It is matter of regret to the friends of Sacred Muſic that ſo little regard is paid to improvement in that uſeful and ſublime part of divine ſervice—Should meaſures be adopted whereby youth, at a ſuitable age may be taught the elements of vocal Muſic, the ſalutary effects would ſoon be manifeſt as a ſhining ornament to our ſocieties and worſhipping aſſemblies—Pſalmody makes impreſſions on the mind which lead to virtue, and at the ſame time diverts it from dangerous habits—It inſpires us with love to God, a zeal for his religious worſhip, and the inſtitutions of Chriſtianity.

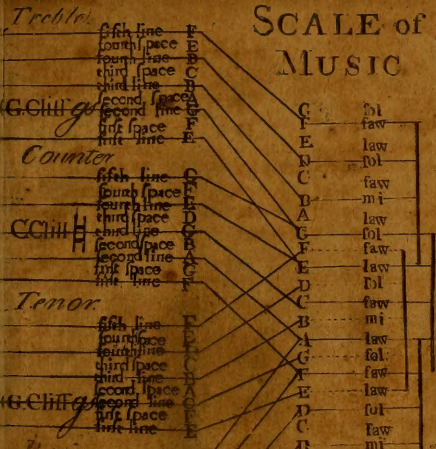
SCALE of MUSIC



Explanation.

The G cliff is placed on the second line in Treble, Counter and Tenor, which gives it the name of G.

The C cliff when used is placed on the third line in Counter, and gives it the name C.

The F cliff is placed on the forth line in Bass and gives it the name F.

The seven first letters of the alphabet are called the musical letters, they represent the lines and spaces when on music is written, and indicate so many distinct sounds, one above another, and are used in finding mi the master note, by beginning at the first line naming both lines and spaces by the letters upward.

The scale shows how the four parts of music are connected.

Observe that G the forth space in Bass, second line in Tenor, and first space in Counter, unite in one G at the right hand, consequently they are one sound, and are an eighth above G the first line in Bass. C the second line in Treble and the fifth line in Counter are a unison and are a fifteenth above G the first line in Bass.

When the G cliff is used in counter it is connected with the other parts as the same as the Tenor.

Rules to find the Mi

The natural place for mi is in ... E
but if b be flat mi is in ... E
if B and E mi is in ... A
if B E and A mi is in ... D
if B E A and D mi is in ... G
if B E A D and G mi is in ... C
if F be sharp mi is in ... G
if F and C mi is in ... C
if F C and G mi is in ... D
if F C G D and A mi is in ... A

The order of singing syllables above mi are faw fol law faw fol law then mi below mi law fol faw law fol faw then mi again.

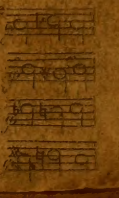
Examples



Notes. Rests.	Characters.	Explanations.	Examples.
Semibreves	Dot or point .	at the right hand of a note makes it half as long again
Minims	Figure 3	shows that the three notes are to be sung in the time of two of the same kind without.
Crotchets	Choosing notes.	either may be sung, but not both by the same voice.
Quavers	Mark of distinction '	shows that such notes are to be sung very distinct and emphatic.	Semiquavers	Stave	five lines with their spaces where on music is written.
Demisemi quavers	Ledger line —	is added when notes ascend more than a degree above, or decend more than a degree below the stave.
	Brace	shows how many parts are sung together		Slur	ties two or more notes together which are sung to one syllable.
	Single bar	divides the time into equal proportions.
	Double bar	shows the end of a strain.
	Close	shows the end of a tune.
Notes are marks of sound. one semibreve is equal in time to two minims, or four crotchets, or eight quavers or sixteen semiquavers, or thirty two demisemiquavers.

Rests are marks of silence of the same length in time as the notes for which they stand.

Explanations.

Repeat. :S: Shows that the muſic between it and the following double bar or cloſe, is to be ſung over again. This ſ denotes a repeation of words

Figures. 1 2 ſhows that the note, or notes, under figure 1 is to be ſung before, and the note, or notes, under figure 2 when repeating; if figured together all are to be ſung when repeating.

COMMON-TIME MOODS.

Firſt. C contains one ſemibreve, or its quantity, betweeneach ſingle bar, and four beats, two down, and two up, four ſeconds of time.

Second. ¢ contains one ſemibreve, and four beats, three ſeconds.

Third. 𝅗𝅥 contains one ſemibreve and two beats, one down and one up, two ſeconds

Forth. $\frac{2}{4}$ contains one minim and two beats one ſecond and an half

TRIPLE TIME MOODS.

First. $\frac{3}{2}$ contains one pointed ſemibreve, or its quantity between each ſingle bar, and three beats, two down, and one up, three ſeconds of time.

Second. $\frac{3}{4}$ contains one pointed minim, and three beats, two ſeconds.

Third. $\frac{3}{8}$ contains one pointed crotchet, and three beats, one ſecond and an half.

8 Charaders. Explanation. Examples.

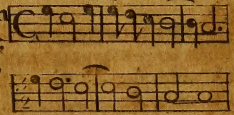
COMPOUND MOODS.

First, $\frac{6}{4}$ Coutains six crothets in each bar, and two beats one down and one up two seconds.

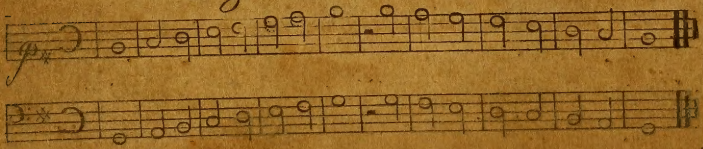
Second, $\frac{6}{8}$ Contains six quavers and two beats one second and an half.

N.B. the hand falls at the beginning of a bar in all moods of time.

Notes of syncopation are those that are driven through or out of their proper order in the bar, which requires the hand to be put down or up while sounding.



Eight Notes



Keys.

There are two natural Keys in music, C the sharp, or major key, and A the flat, or minor key. If the last note in the bass is the key note, which is the first above or below mi, if above it is a sharp key, if below it is a flat key; or if the last note of the bass is faw, it is a sharp key, if law, it is a flat key.

Sharp Key.	Flat Key.
7 mi	7 fol
6 law	6 faw
5 fol	5 law
4 faw	4 fol
3 law	3 faw
2 fol	2 mi
Key faw	Key

MISCELLANEOUS OBSERVATIONS.

IN order to become adepts in the art of Pſalmody, it is eſſential that the learner begin at the firſt principles, as it is for one that wiſhes to obtain accuracy in reading, to begin with the alphabet.—Singing, like other Arts, is attainable only, ſtep by ſtep; therefore that you may ariſe from the A. B. C. of the art to plain tunes, and from thence to the moſt complex muſic, the method to be obſerved is as follows,

Endeavor to get a thorough knowledge of the four preceding pages, as your future progreſs depends entirely on your firſt ſetting out. At proper intervals, while attending to the rules, the learner may begin to cultivate the voice, by raiſing and falling the eight Notes, with the aid of an Inſtructor.§ When the learner has acquired a competent knowledge of the ground work of Muſic, he may begin to acquaint himſelf with written Muſic, by chooſing ſome plain Tune, on the natural Key, and not forſake it, until he can perform it with accuracy. Thus proceeding thro' the ſeveral gradations, he may arrive at the ſummit.

OF FORMING AND TUNING THE VOICE.

IT is neceſſary in order to produce melody, that the voice be round, ſmooth and pliant; therefore avoid any extreme that would render it otherwiſe, as ſinging very loud on high notes, will inevitably break the voice, and yield a harſh and unpleaſing ſound.

§ A perſon unacquainted with the eight Notes, (even a natural ſinger) is as totally incapable of learning them without aſſiſtance, as a child is the alphabet; becauſe they cannot diſtinguiſh the diſtance between tones; and eſpecially the ſmall diſtance of ſemitones.

To perform melodiously, the learner must so mould and cultivate the voice, that where numbers are performing in concert, there may on each part, (as nearly as possible) appear to be but one uniform voice; the nearer it approaches to this, the nearer perfection will be the harmony. Instead of a confused jargon, it will be like the smooth vibrations of the viol, and the soft breathings of the flute: on the contrary, asperity of voice, entirely destroys harmony, and bears a nearer resemblance to the brayings of an ass, than to refined singing. Yet how hard a precept it is to inculcate, that soft singing is the most melodious, when numbers are so prejudiced in favor of their own voices, and have such invincible fondness for being heard above the rest of the Choir, that they will strain their voices to such an enormous pitch, as to completely transgress all rules of decency! Such performance is more like the shootings of the midnight bird, than real music.

Of PRONUNCIATION.

GOOD Pronunciation is a principal ornament in singing, let it be therefore as distinct as possible, endeavoring to avoid, articulating near the end of the tongue, as it renders the sounds flat and insipid; but let the pronunciation be round and full; consequently the sound will be more in the throat, which is the most essential organ of sound, and from whence it hath its origin. Confine yourself to strict grammatical rules, which is the only way to obviate errors.

ORDINATION HYMN, for the Tune Jeruſalem.

CHRIST'S Commiſſion to preach the GOSPEL. St. Matth. Chap. 10.

1 GO forth ye Heralds, in my Name,
ſweetly the Goſpel trumpet ſound,
The glorious Jubilee proclaim,
where'er the human race is found.

2 The joyful news to all impart,
and teach them where ſalvation lies;
With care bind up the broken heart,
and wipe the tears from weeping eyes.

3 Be wiſe as ſerpents where you go,
but harmleſs as the peaceful dove,
And let your heav'n-taught conduct ſhow
that ye're commiſſion'd from above.

4 Freely from me ye have receiv'd,
freely, in love, to others give;
Thus ſhall your doctrines be believ'd,
and, by your labours, ſinners live.
